LAMAR CONFESSES HE IS "MAN OF MYSTERY," ACCUSED BY LEDYARD

ADmits THAT HE IMPERSONATED RIORDAN

Bares Methods Used to Make Self Solid With J. P. Morgan Through Usefulness.

HE TALKED WITH PALMER

House Has Extended Debate on How to Proceed on Mulhall Charges.

By JOHN SHURE.

"The Man of Mystery," who called up by telephone Judge Lovett, Lewis Cass Ledyard and other prominent figures in Wall Street, and tried to bring about the employment of Edward Lauterbach as counsel in the Union Pacific reorganization on the theory that he could "grease the wheels at Washington," identified himself today.

Tells of Attempts.

By his own confession, it was David Lamar. While the Senate Lobby Committee sat and listened to him in amazement he coolly told from the witness chair his side of the story of his bold and daring attempt to force Lauterbach on the Union Pacific and restore his good relations with Morgan & Co.

Those who heard the astounding tale knew when it was over why Lamar has gained the sobriquet of "The Wolf." They understood that he had earned his title.

That he had impersonated the telephone Congressman Daniel J. Riordan, of New York, and Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, without the knowledge or permission of either of these men, indeed, without even the acquaintance of Palmer, was the confession of Lamar. His purpose in doing this was primarily, he told the committee, to bring about a restoration of the good relations that once obtained between the Federal Reserve Board and Morgan & Co. And he averred to the committee, with something like a boast, that he succeeded to a great extent in his purpose, when, using the name of Congressman Palmer, he brought about an interview between Lauterbach and Lewis Cass Ledyard, counsel for Morgan & Co.

In seeking to have Judge Lovett avail himself of the services of Lauterbach, Lamar sought to make it clear he was actuated by the same motive, the restoration of the good relations of the Federal Reserve Board with Morgan & Co. and later by Congressman Palmer, their versions of it constituted only the pale outlines of a part of what really happened, as it was graphically painted by "The Wolf" today. Nothing in all the lobby hearing has touched in human interest his recital of how, in the alleged altruistic purpose of seeking to help a friend, he set out to sell a good brick to some of the shrewdest men in the Street.

If his version of the facts is the correct one, Lewis Cass Ledyard nibbled readily at the tempting bait he held out while impersonating A. Mitchell Palmer, that there was a way to bring about good relations between Morgan & Co. and the Democratic Congress, and thus cause to mount up again the value of stocks handled by this company which had for one reason and another depreciated.

Things got to a point even where the religious state of "Commodore" Ledyard got into the phone conversation of Lamar and Ledyard. Just to the midst of a talk between the impersonated Palmer and Ledyard, according to Lamar, just when Ledyard was looking with favor on harmony with the Democratic House, the religious question arose. "The Wolf" was embarrassed by it but he kept his head and entered into an exhortation.

"Did you know Palmer was a Quaker," asked Senator Nelson.

"How did you know that?"

In Papers.

"Oh, I read it in the papers somewhere."

"And all the while you were impersonating Palmer?"

"Yes."

Spectators and committee laughed heartily at this revelation of how "The Wolf" had brought even the sacred name of religion to his aid in trying to bunco the captains of industry.

Boldly playing his game of trying to

SUBMIT REPORT ON KAHN INQUIRY

House Judiciary Members Ask to Have McReynolds' Case Motion Tabled.

SAY HE GAVE UP PAPERS

Congressmen Do Not Bare Evidence in California Suit, However.

The House Judiciary Committee reported today the Kahn resolutions of inquiry demanding information from the Department of Justice relative to the cause of the postponement of the now famous Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases and the Western Fuel Company customs frauds case.

The committee recommended that the resolutions lie on the table, as the Attorney General has furnished the information desired in advance of formal action by the House.

Transcript of Records.

Included in the committee's report is a transcript of records of the Department of Justice, much of which has previously been made public by the White House, the Department of Justice, or District Attorney McNab, of San Francisco, who resigned because of the department's policy of delay.

It was decided not to make public those portions of the record dealing with the evidence gathered by the Government against the defendants. For this reason, the report of the Judiciary Committee is largely a "rehash" of material brought out during the McNab controversy. The committee neither approves or disapproves of the action of the Attorney General in explaining a postponement of the cases, which postponement has not been set aside by the President.

ROOSEVELT SCORES FOES OF BIG NAVY

Former President Says Senators and Congressmen Who Disagree Are Unfit.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—Colonel Roosevelt today dealt with Senators and Congressmen who oppose appropriations for at least two new battleships annually, in a speech before the Progressive conference here, arranged by the Progressive National Service.

This was the second day of the conference, and was designated as "Navy Day."

Unfaithful to Interest.

"Every Senator or Congressman, whatever his party, should be regarded as unfaithful to the public interest, as false to the country, if he fails heartily to support the program of providing every year for two battleships of the most efficient type, and for whatever other vessels and munitions of war are necessary as accompaniments of these two battleships," Roosevelt declared.

He who votes against appropriating money for two battleships a year stands on a level with the men in Congress who voted against fortifying Hawaii and other stations in the West Indies. These men are unfaithful to the American people, and they by their actions invite national disaster and humiliation.

"There could be no worse type of public servant than those Congressmen who first do all they can to prevent the American people from being able to uphold their interest and honor in event of war, and then do all they can with wanton and ignorant folly to plunge us into war."

Roosevelt declared that there are certain policies so vital to the welfare of the country that they rise above questions of ordinary party difference and insist that the upholding of the navy is one of these questions.

"All sincere friends of international peace and well-being, all sincere patriots, and good Americans, who are devoted to national honor and interest, and to the permanent well-being of our fellow countrymen, must if they really think the matter out, stand for maintaining our navy at least at its present point of efficiency."

China Suffers.

Roosevelt pointed out that the republic of China has suffered partial dismemberment "purely because she has permitted herself to become impotent in war, so that she has no navy and not an adequate army."

"If the American people deliberately chose to follow in Chinese footsteps, doubtless some decades would pass before we would suffer to the extent of China," said the colonel. "But long before that time had come we should have to abandon all pretense of upholding the Monroe doctrine, we should have to abandon Panama and Alaska, and every insular possession, and we should have to surrender all right to say what immigrants shall and what shall not be admitted to our country, and the terms upon which they shall come here and become citizens and hold

M'LOUGHLIN WINS HIS WAY TO FINALS

American Tennis Expert Defeats Australian—To Meet Wilding for Title Friday.

LONDON, July 2.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, American tennis champion, today won his way into the challenge round for the all-England championship by defeating Stanley N. Doubt, of Australia, in three straight games.

The score for the American's final qualifying match was 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. McLoughlin will meet W. F. Wilding, the present champion in the match, for the title Friday.

Secretary Bryan announced today that the State Department was making a thorough investigation of official reports from its representatives in Mexico to the effect that several American citizens were wounded in the recent rebel attack on the city of Durango. Those reports corroborate in part press dispatches from Mexico City received today, although it was also stated in these dispatches that an English citizen had been killed. Of this latter report the State Department has had no report.

Conditions in the Mexican situation are continuing to alarm officials in Washington. According to press reports, the rebels, who have been occupying Durango for a week, have been committing all manner of outrages on women, girls, and men in the city, and that many women have committed suicide rather than submit to the insults of our fellow countrymen, must if they really think the matter out, stand for maintaining our navy at least at its present point of efficiency.

Rockefeller Estate Saved by Employee

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 2.—It was learned yesterday that John Williams, a trusted employee on the estate of John D. Rockefeller, near Tarrytown, with other employees saved the buildings on the estate from being blown up on Monday night, when fire was discovered in the big barn.

Williams knew that there were about 100 dynamite caps stored in the barn, and he realized that if the flames reached these possibly all the buildings on the estate would be blown up. Calling together some of the employees, he led the way into the burning building and succeeded in getting all the dynamite from that part of the barn before the flames attacked it.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., learned of Williams' act by telegraph and was so impressed by the bravery of the employee that he decided to reward him. The girl was found wandering the streets on Saturday night, looking for her sisters. She resented her detention, and threatened to imitate the English suffragettes and force her release by starving herself. A chicken dinner failed to tempt her, but she could not resist the ice cream and strawberries.

Color Line Drawn By London Hotels

LONDON, July 2.—Two negro citizens of the United States, the Rev. Richard Bolden, of New York, and Prof. James Eichelberger, Jr., principal of the Walters Institute, Arkansas, arrived in London on Sunday on their way to Zurich to attend the world Sunday school convention, which opens in that city next Tuesday.

Seaman Under Arrest On Charge of Larceny

Arrested on the Norfolk and Washington steamboat last night while en route from Norfolk to Washington, Seaman Frederick Gentner, of the battleship Vermont, was turned over to the police of the harbor precinct, and when arraigned in the United States branch of the police court today on a charge of larceny, asked for a continuance of hearing until July 9. This continuance was granted.

Officials of the steamer, who took Gentner into custody, told the Washington police, that the man was caught in the act of entering several State rooms. He was watched and gave fight, the steamboat officials say, when an attempt was made to arrest him. The specific charge is larceny of 30 cents which was found on his person.

Young Motorcyclist Dies of His Injuries

Albert Ryon, the nineteen-year-old son of Sergeant Owen C. Ryon, of the Fifth Precinct, who was injured in a motorcycle accident in Pennsylvania, died today in Providence Hospital. He received a broken collar bone and it is also thought his skull was injured.

Quarrel Holds Up Work On Arlington Hotel

George Howard, president of the Arlington Hotel Company, today confirmed the report from New York that work on the new hotel has all but stopped because of a disagreement between Architect Frank M. Andrews and others interested in the project, especially Gen. T. Coleman du Pont.

WILSON WITHDRAWS COLPOYS' NAME FOR EXCISE COMMISSIONER

OPPOSITION TO LEGISLATION COSTS JOB

Wilson Changes Mind in Regard to Appointee When He Learns of Opposition.

HAD NOT BEEN CONFIRMED

President Informed of Fight Pending in Senate During Visit to Capitol.

According to the strenuous objections which have been made against the appointment of John B. Colpoys as one of the three members of the Board of Excise Commissioners, President Wilson, who is now cruising on Chesapeake Bay, ordered sent to the Senate today a withdrawal of Mr. Colpoys' name.

Sent From White House.

It is understood that, before leaving Washington yesterday, the President left word with Secretary Tamm to send in the withdrawal, and when the latter found himself unable to return today from New Jersey, communicated with the Executive offices at the White House and had the message sent. It is said that the President when he visited the Capitol the other day was given to understand that a fight would be made in the Senate against the confirmation of Mr. Colpoys because of his opposition to the Jones-Works excise law, under which the new board is to operate.

Residents Object.

This, coupled with objections on similar grounds from residents of Washington, is said to have caused the President to change his mind and to order the name withdrawn.

It is understood that the President has not yet made up his mind as to the successor of Mr. Colpoys.

Oliver P. Newman, one of the President's appointees to the District Commission, against whom objections have also been made on the ground that he is not a bona fide resident of the District, was informed yesterday that the President had decided to make a statement, saying that at this time he would not discuss the matter.

When asked concerned the reported withdrawal of the name, Mr. Newman made a satisfactory statement as to his residence qualifications, the latter declined to give any statement.

Letter From President.

Close friends of Mr. Colpoys say he has received a letter from the President in which the President gives his reasons for withdrawing the latter's name. It stated that the President, at the time of sending his name to the Senate for confirmation, had not been aware of Mr. Colpoys' views on the Jones-Works excise bill. Had he been fully informed, the President intimated that he never would have placed Mr. Colpoys in the embarrassing position he now holds.

Treatment at Hospital For Intoxicated Persons

Orders have been issued by Major Sylvester that whenever the condition of a person arrested for drunkenness under the new excise law is such that the question of the prisoner's intoxication might be questioned in the Police Court, to take the prisoner to a hospital immediately so that he can be examined by a physician. In cases of this kind, if the prisoner should put up a defense, claiming that he was not intoxicated, the doctor should be called as an expert witness.

Reports were received by Major Sylvester today from the captains of the various police precincts regarding the manner in which the new law is being observed by the saloonkeepers. These reports showed that about two-thirds of the barrooms in the District did not take advantage of the 1 o'clock closing hour, but shut their doors as usual at midnight last night. The summer gardens and restaurants, however, remained open until 1 a. m.

The attitude of the Corporation Counsel's office in not strictly enforcing the sections of the new law where there is a question as to just what construction will be put on them by the excise board.

'MILITARY DAY' IS FULLY OBSERVED

Veterans of North and South United in Praising Their Friends and Foes.

By W. L. OMEROD.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—Under a brassy sky that seemed to focus every ray of the July sun upon the parched field of Gettysburg, fifty thousand civil war veterans are gathered in the shade of trees or under the protection of brown canvas tents here today mopping their faces and setting to take advantage of the faint cats-paw breezes that intermittently sweep through the valley.

Military Day Observed.

This is military day, and, despite the heat, thousands are listening this afternoon to patriotic addresses. Maj. Gen. John P. Brooke, of Pennsylvania, sounded the praises of the North and South, those of the South. But their addresses showed no bitterness of sectional feeling; they were the speeches of peace and brotherhood.

Barry Bulker, of Washington, closed the afternoon program with the reading of Lincoln's Memorial Gettysburg Address.

Only one man in the Washington camp has been affected today, though one Washington man, Allen Diehl Albert, an employee of the Pension Office, living in Arlington, died tonight last night of a cerebral hemorrhage superinduced by the heat.

The man taken from the District camp to the provisional field hospital here was William B. George, who fainted in his tent shortly before noon. The doctors said they did not consider his condition serious.

Mr. Albert served in Company D of the Forty-fifth Volunteer Pennsylvania Infantry during the war. He had been here since Saturday, but had been living in a boarding house in Gettysburg and had not visited the local camp here.

The first death today was that of Landes L. Travis, of Westmore, Pa., who

Second Arrest Possible In Salisbury Death

SALISBURY, July 2.—With the arrest of Harold W. Smith, the general manager of the Home Gas Company, who is charged with being implicated in the performing the criminal operation that killed Florence Wainwright, the company's cashier, Salisbury has assumed a normal condition.

The general impression, long before a coroner's jury mentioned Smith in its verdict, was that he was connected with the crime, and now that he is out on $5,000 bail for the action of the grand jury, the people seem satisfied.

It is understood that the investigation into all the facts connected with the young woman's death will not cease.

There seems some reason to believe that other persons were concerned, and the local authorities are of the opinion that they can trace clues which will bring at least another man before the bar of justice.

REPUBLICAN OFFERS CURRENCY MEASURE

Lindbergh Introduces Bill to Eliminate "Present Industrial Slavery."

In order to "free the people from their present industrial slavery," Congressman Lindbergh, Republican, of Minnesota, today introduced a new currency bill intended to provide funds for agricultural development. The basis of the bill is the present Glass bill, but with several material amendments. Lindbergh proposes that in addition to the $500,000,000 emergency currency which the Federal Reserve Board may issue, it shall also issue an addition of $500,000,000 to be available for loans to farmers on first mortgage bonds.

Lindbergh would also raise the rate of interest paid in Postal Savings Banks from 2 to 3 per cent; increase the amount a depositor may have on deposit to $1,000 and loan all of the postal savings to farmers on approved security at 3 per cent.
